

ST SUNDAY TIMES APPOINTMENTS

MAKING OPPORTUNITIES KNOCK ON YOUR DOOR

Leading from the front

There are many different power bases that a leader can develop and use.

These include problematic ones such as the power of position, the power to give rewards, the power to punish and the power to control information. While these types of power do have some strength, they put the person being led in an unhealthy position of weakness, and can leave leaders using these power bases looking autocratic and out of touch.

More than this, society has changed hugely over the last 50 years. Citizens are individually more powerful, and employees are more able to shift jobs. Few of us enjoy having power exerted over us, and many will do what they can to undermine people who use these sorts of power.

However there are three types of positive power that effective leaders use: charismatic power, expert power and referent power.

This article teaches you how to build expert power.

Expert power is essential because as a leader, your team looks to you for direction and guidance. Team members need to believe in your ability to set a worthwhile direction, give sound guidance and coordinate a good result.

If your team perceives you as a true expert, they will be much more receptive when you try to exercise influence tactics such as rational persuasion and inspirational appeal.

What's more, if members of your team see you as an expert, you will find it much easier to guide them in such a way as to create high motivation.

If team members respect your expertise, they'll know that you can show them how to work effectively.

If members of your team trust your judgment, they'll trust you to guide their good efforts in such a way that you'll make the most of their hard work; and

If they can see your expertise, team members are more likely to believe that you have the wisdom to direct their efforts towards a goal that is genuinely worthwhile.

Taken together, if your team sees you as an expert, you will find it much easier to motivate team members to perform at their best.

So how do you build expert power?

But just being an expert isn't enough, it is also necessary for your team members to recognize your expertise and see you to be a credible source of information and advice. Gary A. Yukl, in his book "Leadership in Organizations," details some steps to build expert power. A summary of these steps follows:

Promote an image of expertise: Since perceived expertise in many occupations is associated with a person's education and experience, a leader should - in a low key way - make sure that subordinates, peers, and superiors are aware of his or her formal education, relevant work experience, and significant accomplishments.

One common tactic to make this information known is to display diplomas, licenses, awards, and other evidence of expertise in a prominent location in one's office - after all, if you've worked hard to gain knowledge, it's fair that you get credit for it. Another tactic is to make subtle references to prior education or experience (for example, "When I was chief engineer at GE, we had a problem similar to this one"). Beware, however, this tactic can easily be overdone.

Keep informed: Expert power is exercised through rational persuasion and demonstration of expertise. Rational persuasion depends on a firm grasp of up-to-date facts. It is therefore essential for a leader to keep well-informed of developments within the team, within the organization, and in the outside world.

Recognize subordinate concerns: Use of rational persuasion should not be seen as a form of one-way communication from the leader to subordinates. Effective leaders listen carefully to the concerns and uncertainties of their team members, and make sure that they address these in making a persuasive appeal.

Avoid threatening the self-esteem of subordinates: Expert power is based on a knowledge differential between leader and team members. Unfortunately, the very existence of such a differential can cause problems if the leader is not careful about the way he exercises expert power.

Team members can dislike unfavorable status comparisons where the gap is very large and obvious. They are likely to be upset by a leader who acts in a superior way, and arrogantly flaunts his greater expertise.

In the process of presenting rational arguments, some leaders lecture their team members in a condescending manner and convey the impression that the other team members are "ignorant." Guard against this - it can make you look very arrogant.

Act confidently and decisively in a crisis: In a crisis or emergency, subordinates prefer a "take charge" leader who appears to know how to direct the group in coping with the problem. In this kind of situation, subordinates tend to associate confident, firm leadership with expert knowledge. Even if the leader is not sure of the best way to deal with a crisis, to express doubts or appear confused risks the loss of influence over subordinates.

Maintain credibility: Once established, one's image of expertise should be carefully protected. The leader should avoid making careless comments about subjects on which he or she is poorly informed, and should avoid being associated with projects with a low likelihood of success.

-mindtools.com

SATHOSA MOTORS PLC POST OF SERVICE ENGINEER

Sathosa Motors Plc is a leading Automobile Company in Sri Lanka wishes to recruit a suitable candidate to fit into the Post of Service Engineer for their workshop with following qualifications.

Educational Qualifications:
B.Sc. degree specialized in the field of Mechanical Engineering with 5 yrs. Experience in a reputed Automobile company in the executive capacity or
Degree in Automobile Engineering with 5 yrs. Experience in a reputed motor company in the executive capacity.
or
NDT in Mechanical Engineering with 10 yrs. Experience in an established Motor Company in the executive capacity.

Applicants should have good communication skills with leadership qualities to motivate a team and achieve targets set by Management.

Age : Below 40 yrs.
Salary : Negotiable

Please forward your resume with 2 non related referees with contact telephone numbers to the under mentioned address within 10 days of this advertisement.

MANAGER/PERSONNEL & ADMINISTRATION
No. 25, Vauxhall Street
Colombo 02
Tel. 4939710

ASIA DIGEST
2010
TOWARDS A NEW GLOBAL ORDER

MANAGER MARKETING

IF YOU ARE A HARD WORKING, DYNAMIC LADY WITH A PROVEN RECORD IN MARKETING AND PR AND FOCUSED IN ACHIEVING TARGETS. NO MATTER THE HOURS PUT IN, WE WILL OPEN THE DOOR OF OPPORTUNITY FOR YOU.

YOU WILL ALSO BE EXPECTED TO INTRODUCE ASIA DIGEST TO THE NORTH AND EAST OF SRI LANKA AND DEVELOP THE RETAIL MARKET.

BASE SALARY NOT LESS THAN RS. 30,000/- PM AND 5% COMMISSION ON SALES WHICH WOULD EXCEED A MINIMUM TOTAL PACKAGE OF SL. RS. 100,000/-

CALL 077759999 FOR APPOINTMENT
ASIA DIGEST INTERNATIONAL
5A HAVELOCK RD.
COLOMBO 05

We have nurtured one of the world's most loved brands. And made countless young people into stars.

Career Openings

We offer young start-ups a brand new world.

Milk, the basic building block of society on which we have built a tradition of excellence spanning over a century. We are Fonterra Brands, the world's largest dairy producer and marketers of leading dairy brands which capture trust and goodness around the world.

Headquartered in New Zealand we continue to lead global benchmarks and here in Sri Lanka, many of our brands enjoy market leadership. Fonterra is home to a league of achievers, all working hand-in-hand, driven by an unwavering passion in challenging boundaries, professionally and personally.

Just the same way we gave rise to a global dairy empire we inspire and support our employees to fly on the wings of accomplishment, availing ambitious young people opportunities for life. How does it make you feel? If you believe this is your calling to shine, read on!

Management Trainees

We are looking for young aspirants with a degree from a recognized university from the spheres of business management, marketing or finance. Added qualifications like CIM or CIMA would give you the edge. What would really add power to your degree is what really makes you who you are. We have in mind born leaders with a quest for discovery. You should be able to impress us with your vision for life and the thirst for success. A fluent communicator in English, you should love hard work and responsibility. More than all, you should feel the pride that drives us as individuals belonging to a global employer of choice.

If you get the nod, we will mould you into a sharp young professional with the impetus to learn and grow within Fonterra's global network. You will undergo two years of training across all sections of the business and will be acquainted with the complete knowledge of the business operations in every department. So how does it feel to join a world-class employer? Find out, send your complete CV with names of two non-related referees to reach us within 7 days of this advertisement.

The Talent & Rewards Manager, Fonterra Brands Lanka (Pvt) Ltd.
100 Delgoda Road, Biyagama 11650.
E-mail: careers@fonterra.com